REFERENDUM ONE DAY LATE, SAYS STATE ATTORNEY

Opinion of Attorney General Fixes Date of Filing Ordinance.

Thirty Day Period For Referendum Starts at That Time.

Referendum petitions asking for a vote on the proposed gas rate increase, were filed 24 hours late, according to City Solicitor Henry C. Ashcraft.

In a statement today, Mr. Ashcraft said that the 30-day referendum period for ordinances passed over the mayor's veto, begins with the date on which the ordinance was filed with the mayor. He quoted as his authority for the statement, an opinion of the attorney general rendered December 31, 1917. The attorney general's opinion follows:

"Under the provisions of Section 4227-2 G. C. (104 O. L. 238) the thirty day referendum period for an ordinance, which has been passed or adopted by the council of a city and presented to the mayor for his approval and disapproval, and vetoed by him, and later reconsidered by said council and passed over the mayor's veto, begins with the date the ordinance, or resolution was originally filed with the mayor, or after its first passage or adoption."

The referendum petition which was received by City Auditor Clifford Frye last night at 8:30, contained 1307 names almost twice the number required by law for such a petition. The matter of the legality of the petition was referred by Mr. Frye to City Solicitor Ashcraft this morning.

Mr. Frye stated that according to law such a petition as he has remains in his hands for ten days and is then filed with the board of elections. He stated that if City Solicitor Ashcraft rendered an opinion that the petition was not legal, that he would not file it with the board of elections.

Allen Reed, one of the referendum petitioners, this afternoon stated that the matter was now up to the city solicitor for decision regarding the measure and that if he regarded it as illegal there was nothing further to be done.

Reed stated that when the petition was first started he thought that the members of the committee had until January 29 to file and later found out that to the best of their knowledge that they had until Friday night. The fact that they had only until Thursday night was a complete surprise.

GIVE CORN TO FEED STARVING

Farmers Offer Grain to European Committee If Public Will Pay Transportation Charges.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—The offer of middle-west farmers to give corn to the starving millions in foreign countries was accepted today by the Hoover European relief committee. A telegram was received at the American Farm Bureau federation's headquarters from J. R. Howard, president, now in New York saying the two committees have promised to use all corn for which they can raise transportation money.

Mr. Howard represented 1,250,000 farmers, has been in New York for several days in conference with Herbert Hoover and other foreign relief committee heads. In his message he said members of the committee were convinced that the public is ready to transport the grain offered by the farmers throughout the corn growing districts of the country.

At their headquarters, the farmers' slogan in the movement has been announced as:

"Let us market our surplus in relief and take our pay in good will." It is said there that the public is expected to pay the transportation bill.

TONICS ARE BARRED FROM SOFT DRINK BARS

Cincinnati, Jan. 22.—Tonics, elixirs, "cold cures" and all such beverages, or remedies containing more than one half of one per cent of alcohol must disappear from the bars of all saloons and other soft drink places in Cincinnati.

This order was issued to the police force by Chief William Copeland yesterday and the order was accompanied by a copy of the Crabbe act under which prosecution is promised for violators.

TRADE BALANCE 3 BILLIONS.

Washington, Jan. 22.—Exports from the United States in 1920 were valued at $28,228,000,000 as compared with $7,920,000,000 in 1919. Imports were valued at $25,278,000,000 as compared with $14,000,000,000 in 1919. This left a trade balance for 1920 of approximately three billions of dollars in favor of the United States as against a balance the year before of approximately four billions of dollars.

LANDLORDS FINED.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Two landlords were fined $200 and costs, the maximum under a city ordinance, by Municipal Judge Joseph W. Schulman today for failing to supply sufficient heat to "insure the health of their tenants." The cases were brought by J. D. Robertson, health commissioner.

MOTHER GOES ON TRIAL.

Warren, Jan. 22.—Mrs. Thomas Koehler today is facing a trial for first degree murder in connection with the death of her two children whose bodies were found in the ruins of their burned home near Hubbard last month. The indictment was returned last night by the Warren county grand jury.

"PRETTIEST WOMAN ON BOAT," VERDICT

Mrs. S. A. Barrell.

This piquant young matron was voted "the prettiest woman on board the liner La France," which arrived in New York recently. With the great numbers of movie stars, actresses and society girls who are sailing for Europe or returning home on each trip, that is quite some tribute.

RECOVER MOST OF STOLEN MONEY

Police Believe Minister Held In Custody Carried Out Robbery Single Handed—$212,000 Is Recovered.

Mount Vernon, Ill., Jan. 22.—With Guy Kyle, former pastor of the Free Methodist church of Mount Vernon, under arrest, and virtually all of the money recovered, postoffice inspectors today were continuing their investigation into the theft here January 14, of 31 packages of registered mail containing $185,000 cash and $27,000 in negotiable securities.

Developments early today had convinced the inspectors that Kyle carried out the robbery single handed. It was said, but further examination of the former pastor was planned to learn how he became acquainted with the movement of the large shipment of money.

A. W. Hittcock, one of the three inspectors who have been working on the case, said this morning that "one or two" men who Kyle was said to have implicated in his confession had been questioned but that nothing had been discovered which would cause them to be held.

The inspectors spent the night checking up cash they recovered at Kyle's home, and in his two garages, and it is believed that less than $1,000 remains to be accounted for.

The theft took place early in the morning while the money was being transferred from the postoffice here to the Chicago and Eastern Illinois depot for shipment to nearby towns to meet mine payrolls.

THIEVES GET SUNDAY DINNER IN STORE RAID

Thieves who entered the F. P. Winn grocery in Maple avenue last night, got a complete Sunday dinner, with chicken "everythin'." More than $50 worth of groceries were stolen, Winn believes.

It is believed that the thief was assisted by a boy as the window through which entrance was gained was too small for a man. The outer door was opened to admit the adult operator. Loot included bacon, butter, a bucket of lard, bread and meat besides a chicken which was in the ice box. Neighbors saw a man prowling about the place about 9 o'clock but everything in the store was all right at that hour.

MANY PLANTS THREATENED.

Cleveland, Jan. 22.—A dozen manufacturing buildings and lumber yards in the flat district were threatened with destruction in an early morning fire that did damage at $100,000 to several manufacturing firms occupying a four story building at 501 West Prospects street.

Boston: Shoes made from ostrich skins, which it is claimed will outwear ordinary leather shoes will be on sale here. The first consignment of skins for the shoes have arrived.

CATCHES WIFE IN STEEL-TRAP; LIVED ON BERRIES AND ROOTS FOR YEARS

Laurel, Miss., Jan. 22.—Driven from his cabin in the swamps along Leaf River by high water, Albert Parsons, an aged white man and a woman who says she is his wife, were brought to Laurel today and placed in the county poorhouse. The finding of Parsons is believed to set at rest the reports of a wild man, current for years, said to be living in this section.

Parsons says that he and his wife lived on wild root berries and what wild animal they were able to trap. With them when found was a child, which in spite of the cold was entirely without clothing. Parsons told the sheriff that he caught his wife in a steel trap many years ago.

STOP HEARINGS ON VALUATIONS OF REAL ESTATE

Tax Commission Will Reach Decision In the Matter Before February 1.

Farmers Want Reappraisal Delayed Till Farm Values Settle.

Columbus, Jan. 22.—After a solid week spent largely in hearing protests against its order for a reappraisal of real estate in 61 counties of Ohio, the state tax commission today announced that it will hear no more arguments on the subject. Several counties requested that the hearing be continued into another week but members of the commission were of the opinion that since all the statements were about the same there was no necessity for prolonging the investigation. Farmer's organizations were unanimous against the reappraisal order, arguing that with the decline in price of their products and a deflation in values there was no way of determining the value of farm lands at this time. They said they were not trying to evade paying their just share of taxation but believe that this was not the time for a reappraisal. Some professed the belief that a reappraisal of their counties at this time would almost cause a riot.

Delegations from Cleveland, Akron, Dayton and Springfield, representing city and county officials and civic organizations in these cities favored a reappraisal, saying that their property had been reappraised and increased and that it was not fair to them to allow 61 counties in Ohio to remain unchanged. In many of them there has been no reappraisal since 1910.

The order for a reappraisal made by the tax commission several weeks ago has been temporarily suspended until February 1. Before that date the commission will determine whether the order shall stand or be rescinded. One member of the tax commission who voted to rine order, A. B. Beckingmaugh, Democrat, has since been displaced by S. P. Forney, Republican and another member, Daniel J. Ryan is subject to removal or reappointment any time. He is a Republican, appointed by Governor Cox, but never confirmed by the senate. Governor Davis along with a number of other Cox appointees.

BOY TAKES POISON WHEN CAUGHT IN HOLD-UP

Pittsburgh, Kansas, Jan. 22.—Wallace Ringle a student in the Pittsburgh high school and business manager of the high school paper, killed himself this morning. Ringle was arrested yesterday, charged with holding up a Pittsburgh street car. Wednesday night he was said to have confessed to charge as well as to several other crimes. He has been at liberty on bond.

Ringle swallowed poison. With Ringle were arrested two other youths who also confessed to the robbery. A note sent by Ringle to one of the other boys in school yesterday, boasting of a robbery the night before reached the police and caused Ringle's arrest.

SOVIET ENVOY OFF FOR HOME

Ludwig Martens Sails For Sweden Under Deportation Order of American Government—Thanks Friends Here.

New York, Jan. 22.—Nearly two years effort by Ludwig C. A. K. Martens to gain recognition by the United States government as the ambassador of the Russian Soviet government ended today with his departure for Gothenburg, Sweden, on board the steam ship Stockholm. It was the final execution of an order from the department of labor for his deportation as an undesirable alien.

Hundreds of personal friends of Martens and of his "ambassadorial" retinue of 42 crowded the docks to bid farewell. Although the department of labor offered the best accommodations the ship affords, Martens declined, saying he wished to buy a ticket and "travel like any other passenger."

Before boarding the ship, Martens issued a statement expressing "grateful appreciation for the great personal kindness and courtesy I have received from many Americans in all vocations and in all countries. He said it throughout the country. He said it was a source of personal favor "to find everywhere men and women who have not allowed hysterical fears of prejudice to move them from their sympathy with the cause I have represented."

PALACE HOTEL BAR IN FRISCO ONLY A MEMORY

San Francisco, Jan. 22.—The Palace hotel bar, whose lustre mahogany had been the resting place of many famous and business deals of the early days of San Francisco were commemorated, is gone.

Its passing was celebrated quietly yesterday. The farewell toast to the place, eloquent with memories of ancient convivialities was drunk in ginger ale.

The original bar was built in 1890. It was rebuilt after the fire and earthquake in 1906. Behind the bar hangs a famous Maxfield Parrish painting, "The Piped Piper."

The bar, a soft drink dispensary since the advent of prohibition, will be converted into an annex to the hotel grill.

CINCINNATI MAN NAMED.

Cincinnati, Jan. 22.—State Attorney General John G. Price announced today that he had appointed Attorney Henry G. Hauck, has special counsel in Hamilton county to succeed George T. Poor, who resigned when made a member of the state public utilities commission.

CLEARING HOUSE CONDITION.

New York, Jan. 22.—The actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows that they held $12,527,640 reserve in excess of legal requirements. This is an increase of $14,500,000 from last week.

JERUSALEM CELEBRATES DELIVERANCE OF CITY

Sir Herbert Samuel and Capt. Lord Edwin Hay and staff passing through Jaffa road after receiving salute at Jaffa gate, located under clock tower in middle background.

Elaborate ceremonies marked the third anniversary of the taking of Jerusalem by General Allenby. The Citadel of Zion and roads leading to Jaffa gate were lined with school children and thronged with spectators. A mountain battery from Scopus fired a salute to the high commissioner, Sir Herbert Samuel, while ten airplanes hummed overhead. Brigadier General Castello, V. A., headed the military parade, which consisted of the Southern Lancashire band, a platoon of French and another of Italian troops, two companies of the South Lancashires with colors, seventy-six Punjab Indian sappers and miners and mountain batteries. The American colony decorated the graves in the military cemetery. In the morning a memorial service was held in St. George's cathedral to commemorate the deliverance of the Holy City and in memory of the dead. The high commissioner, Sir Herbert Samuel, and Mrs. Samuel, church dignitaries of many creeds, the allied consuls and military representatives were present.

JAPS DO NOT ASK CITIZENSHIP

Ambassador to Japan Discusses "California" Issue Before New York Club—Explains Japanese Attitude.

New York, Jan. 22.—Discussing what he termed "the California issue" in an address today before the University club, Roland S. Morris, American ambassador to Japan, declared that the Japanese were fearful that California, having adopted the plan of classifying aliens on the basis of their eligibility to citizenship, might use this method not only in property rights, but also in personal rights.

Ambassador Morris, who has been conducting the negotiations with Baron Shidehara, the Japanese ambassador, with a view of laying the basis of a treaty between the United States and Japan, further declared that the Japanese protest against the California anti-alien law presented to the American people the definite question of whether in the larger view of America's relations with the Orient, it is wise to classify aliens on the basis of their eligibility to citizenship.

Presenting the issue involved in the present negotiations, Mr. Morris asked that it be borne in mind that the Japanese are not asking for citizenship; they are asking for greater rights for its nationals than those conceded to other aliens; are not questioning the right of the United States government to pass, subject to local laws, regulations covering admission or residence of foreigners, nor seeking removal of present restrictions on Japanese immigration. The Japanese government, he added, does "not" demand that it be unjust and unfair to pick out a particular group of aliens who are under certain political disabilities and deprive them of rights which all other aliens are permitted to enjoy."

EGG PRICES UP 5 CENTS TODAY

Average Price Is 65 Cents, While Butter Is Selling At 60 Cents—Fruit Prices Are Higher.

Chicken are little higher. They sell from $1.75 each. Wholesale dealers differ today in the price of potatoes. Some state that they are 50 cents higher on the 150 pound, and have advanced from $3 to $3.50. Others say that the market is firm at $3 for 150-pound sack and still another statement was that they were cheaper as the market is overstocked. Quotations on potatoes on the Cleveland market are $2.25 to $2.50 for 150 pounds.

Bananas are very nice and selling fast at the wholesale price of $7.50 per 100 pounds. Oranges and grape fruit are a little higher.

Strawberries that were down last week from 60 to 65 cents a quart are five cents higher today at 70 cents.

REMEMBERED

The characteristic of the Pilgrims was their faith in God. They were poor, lived simply and most of them were short lived, but their impact on civilization was tremendous. They were church members, and worshiped God conscientiously and devoutly. Even though some laugh at their laws, all admire the heritage they gave their descendants in conviction and character. Let us thoughtfully ask ourselves the question if our imprint on civilization will compare favorably with theirs?

If you have not joined that large body of substantial and sensible people who compose the church membership of Newark, will you not give it careful and immediate and logical thought? This will make you a churchgoer. Seek the church in which you can best work. Any church will gladly welcome any one who really desires to follow the teachings of Christ.

WILL SCRUTINIZE ROAD CONTRACTS

New Highway Commissioner Named Yesterday to Hold Up $3,000,000 Worth of Road Work Let Just Before Inauguration.

Columbus, Jan. 22.—The last letting of road contracts by the state highway department December 31, amounting to about $3,000,000 is being investigated by Governor Davis and the legislature reorganization committee, it became known today.

Leon C. Herriek of Norwalk, new highway commissioner appointed by Governor Davis yesterday, will be instructed when he takes office Monday, to look up these contracts and ask for new estimates.

A. R. Taylor, former Democratic highway commissioner, declared today that those contracts had all been let and signed and nothing short of corruption could stop their being carried out. Some of them were signed on the day of the letting, he said, and bonds were given for the performance of the contracts on January 10. This was the day Governor Davis was inaugurated and the day before Taylor was dismissed by Davis.

The contracts let at this time represent many important highway improvements included among the jobs being paved of 10 miles of the national pike midway between Columbus and Springfield and improvement of North High street in Columbus. The Franklin county road contract has already been attacked in the courts by the Columbus, Delaware and Marion Traction company but could not proceed because Judge Kinkaid who was hearing the case ruled that there was no highway commissioner. Herriek will be substituted as defendant in the case as soon as he is confirmed.

Confirmation of Herriek will be asked of the state senate by the governor Monday. He will be expected to plunge into the reorganization of the department and investigate letting of contracts just as soon as he qualifies.

The legislative committee on reorganization is closed with authority to investigate any department, having given authority to compel attendance of witnesses and production of books and its first work may be to probe the highway department.

WANTS HARDING TO FIX METHOD OF DISARMAMENT

Elihu Root Urges House To Delay Action Until After March 1.

Thinks New Administration Should Act Promptly On Proposal.

Washington, Jan. 22.—The question of total or partial disarmament should not be discussed by the United States with other nations pending a change of administration March 4, Elihu Root, who helped to form the international court of arbitration under the League of Nations, declared today in a letter to Chairman Butler of the house naval committee.

The precise method of procedure, Mr. Root said, ought to be determined after and not before Mr. Harding and his secretary of state have had an opportunity to inform themselves and to reach conclusions as to the way which affords the best prospect of success.

Mr. Root declared his strong belief that steps should be taken promptly after the new administration is established to bring about a general agreement for disarmament.

Writing Chairman Butler under date of January 20, Mr. Root said:

"I have your letter of January 14 asking an opinion as to whether your committee in considering an estimate for additional ships of war requiring for their completion the sum of $107,177,000."

"I do not feel like hazarding an opinion as to what reply other governments might make to a suggestion from our government for the appointment of representatives to meet for the purpose of discussing the question of total or partial disarmament."

"I feel strongly that steps should be taken promptly after the new administration is established to bring about a general agreement on that question. It is plainly impracticable to accomplish this before the change of administration."

"The precise method of procedure through which the attempt should be made, I think ought to be determined after and not before Mr. Harding and his secretary of state have had an opportunity to inform themselves, and to reach conclusions as to the way which affords the best prospect of success. Action on your part based upon any opinion which you can form now as to the best method of procedure might prove to be just the wrong thing and might create obstacles to success instead of helping it along."

"The subject is especially difficult because of the disturbed condition of eastern Europe, and it is difficult because too many nations have special apprehension of danger against which they wish to guard. The new administration will soon learn what is the best way to deal with these difficulties. It may be that they cannot all be dealt with in the same way or by the same process."

"I think this expresses my view as fully as could be if I were to go to Washington and appear before your committee."

Mr. Root's letter was presented to the naval committee today by Chairman Butler, who emphasized that it was not the purpose of the committee in seeking legislation for the country to make an investigation of its own on the question of disarmament.

"We are simply trying to get the view of men like Mr. Root," said Mr. Butler, "and it is not our purpose to emphasize the present or the incoming administration or attempt to tie the hands of President-elect Harding."

NIGHT FAIR TO BE TRIED OUT

Board Decides to Keep the County Fair Open For Special Evening Program With Fireworks and Races.

At the meeting of the Licking county fair board this morning the board decided to hold the fair this year in the evening in addition to the regular day fair. It was decided to wire the grounds suitably in order that the night fair could be held in the best of light.

Two attractions at night will be pony races on the track and display of fireworks for the benefit of all.

The board acted favorably on the suggestion that the park be improved and appointed a committee to meet with similar committees from the Chamber of Commerce and the Farm Bureau. A survey of the grounds and plans for several new buildings are being arranged.

It was decided this morning that children under 15 would be given free admittance for two days of the fair which will be held September 13 to 16 this year.

PICKFORD PRESENTS

BEST CHARACTERIZATION

"Suds" might well be called "The tale of a shirt." Mary Pickford scores a big success in her latest United Artists picture at the Auditorium theater with her latest film offering. "Queen of Photoplays" and doubtless it will be shortly by the enthusiastic audience who see Miss Pickford in this her most recent photoplay.

The story of "Suds" is all laid about a common ordinary shirt which is left to be washed in a small laundry in the slums of London by one Horace Green-smith, a cheap actor.

The role played by Mary Pickford is that of Amanda Afflick, the woe-begone slavey in the laundry. Amanda, having received the shirt when it was tossed over the counter to be laundered, promptly falls in love with its owner. It is some months before the shirt is called for but in the meantime, Amanda washes it twice a week "to keep his memory clean," and for the edification of the other girls, who see such wonderful romances about herself and Horace.

the continued melodramas that have contributed toward Universal's fame as an exponent of the multi-chaptered screen drama.

How to get as many thrills into an ordinary length screen story as in an eighteen-episode serial was a problem that McGowan met every day.

In the first few days of production he had Frank Mayo limping and by the end of the story he recommended that the star be given a vacation in some restful retreat.

Like Pussyfoot Johnson, who "gave an eye to make England dry," McGowan nearly required Mayo to "give a limb to make 'Tiger True' spin."

The story was written by Max Brand, master exponent of the virile scenario, and in the hands of the average director would be considered to have dramatic punches enough. Not so with McGowan. When the story of "Tiger True" is seen at the Auditorium Sunday it will compete with any serial for punch, at the same time retaining all the plausibility and polish of a well written story—the work of one of the country's best known novelists.

IRVING CUMMINGS, VILLAIN CLAIMS HE'S NOT SO BAD

Irving Cummings, who plays what is technically known as the "heavy" role—otherwise, the villain—in Ethel Clayton's new picture, "The Thirteenth Commandment," now at the Alhambra is one of the best known "male vamps" now menacing the happiness of our celluloid heroines. Mr. Cummings has the sophisticated, sardonic face that enables him to play these disreputable characters to the queen's taste.

"I hope people don't think I'm really such a bad fellow," said Mr. Cummings. "My home life is beautifully normal and I have a wonderful son, Irving, Junior. My only dissipation are my famous quackless ducks and my flock of chickens, which no one but myself will believe are a paying investment." "The Thirteenth Commandment" is seen today and tomorrow.

VAUDEVILLE PROGRAM

PLEASES AT AUDITORIUM
The Swiss Song of the "Three Women" and one man sang themselves into popular favor at the Auditorium theater last evening. This is a clever act, the artists appearing in native costumes. Heber Brothers in a musical act that proved to be one of the best seen here in quite some time, made a big hit. This program is seen together with Mary Pickford in "Suds."

BUCK JONES DUE IN "FIREBRAND TREVISION"

Buck Jones and his cowpunchers who are to open at the Alhambra theater on Monday in "Firebrand Trevision," a new Fox play, got into their native element when they went to the Verde ranch near Victorville, Cal., to film this story written by Charles Alden Seltzer and directed by Thomas N. Heffron, one of the new directors on the Fox West Coast staff. They found John Grier, owner of the ranch, busy rounding up 6,500 head of cattle. "No work today," said Buck to his director. "I need the exercise and so do these boys. We have not helped in a round-up for such a long time that the regular hand on a ranch will begin to think we are nothing but motion picture cowpunchers."

With that he was off with "Slim" Padgett, Gene Foney and a half dozen others. They rode ten miles into the mountains on this great ranch, which covers 35,000 acres and they gave the owner much help in getting his cattle together. The first day they were out they brought in 700 head.

Winifred Westover appears as leading woman in "Firebrand Trevision."

REALISM WAS TOO STRIKING: DIRECTOR WENT TO HOSPITAL

There is a scene in "April Fool," latest of the Alhambra Comedies starring Lloyd Hamilton at the Auditorium Sunday, in which the star was called upon to use an old time gun in firing at a fish, in one of the original comedy scenes. Charles Parrott, who directed the picture, is a bear for realism and when Hamilton started in with the act he did not like the way that the star handled the artillery. So he halted him and proceeded to show the method in which it should be done. All would have been well, except for the fact that the firing apparatus was attached to the witchboard and a young attendant got mixed up on the signals and turned the switch at the very wrong moment. The result was that the ancient blunderbuss went off at the wrong moment and Parrott went to a hospital where he spent several days. Needless to say, the gun lost its part in the comedy and the very disagreeable scene was entirely eliminated from the picture, though the incident delayed the completion of the film for over a week.

that she has the other girls in the laundry believing them and practically believe them herself. In many a splitting scene Amanda tells the girls how her father, the Arch Duke, has sent her out into the world to be loved for her own sake and not for her vast fortune—that when Horace returns for his shirt it will be the signal that all is well and that the man has proved his love and she can return to her rightful station in life.

NEW MAYO PRODUCTION FILMED BY SKILLFUL DIRECTOR

"Put a thrill in every foot and lift 'em out of their seats at least once in every reel."

Those were the orders issued to J. P. McGowan, the Universal director, as he began production of "Tiger True," the Universal photodrama in which Frank Mayo will exceed his record as a battler.

The orders came from Irving Thalberg, who personally represents Carl Laemmle at the Universal west coast studios and he issued them knowing that McGowan is one man in the game who can introduce unexpected thrills into a story.

Before he concentrated his efforts on feature dramas, McGowan was a serial director and produced many of

"Kismet," the Robertson-Cole special production, starring the inimitable character actor, Otis Skinner, in his first screen venture, will open at the Auditorium beginning Monday for three days. This is one of the greatest pictures of the decade. Replete with interesting characterizations and situations, the story gave Mr. Skinner his greatest starring vehicle on the legitimate stage and the screen version is even better.

It is a privilege to see the great character star in this picturesque production which, as the smashing hit of two continents marked an epoch in legitimate drama. It was with effort that Mr. Skinner was persuaded to perpetuate both the drama and himself by appearing on the screen in a portrayal of the famous character of Hajj the beggar. Having finally consented, the actor, as is his custom, threw himself into the work with all his vim and enthusiasm and the result is a masterpiece of moving picture art.

The story of "Kismet" placed in the historic old city of Bagdad, calls for settings of unusual magnificence and picturesqueness. While Robertson-Cole did not "shoot" any of the scenes in Bagdad, the particular locations of

FIRST APPEARANCE IN MOTION PICTURES OF AMERICA'S GREATEST ROMANTIC CHARACTER ACTOR

AT LAST the management is glad to announce the presentation of this most picturesque drama, starting Monday. It is a fitting climax to the many hits offered by this theater during the passing year. The role of Hajj, the lovable beggar of Bagdad, was performed by Mr. Skinner all over the United States, and the play has been translated into a dozen different tongues, becoming a literary classic. The photo production has been made in magnificent and gorgeous style, and is proving the wonder of the cinema art wherever shown. Most unusual musical settings have been arranged by Sam Gelfer.

Owing to the length of "Kismet" our comedy and weekly will necessarily have to be dispensed with.

TO MY GRANVILLE FRIENDS:

"Kismet" will be my first feature shown at the Granville Opera House, February 1st, when I take that theater over.

POWER IS LEADERSHIP.

You can give a boy the best college and technical education that the country affords, but if he can not impress his personality on others, if he is not able to make them respond to the courses of action which he suggests, he will be only a passive figure. And yet all the while he may have excellent ideas.

On the other hand, many people secure conspicuous positions who seem to have little general intelligence. In politics they are particularly successful through an ingratiating manner. In business they often go a good way on bluff. They somehow strike a note of confidence that wins assent and personal following.

It often happens that the most intelligent person is the least forthright. In his broad view of pros and cons, he sees objections, these shake his confidence in any proposition he may be advocating. Meanwhile the empty headed man, who can see only one side of any idea, speaks with such bold confidence that he commands his following.

Hence one of the first aims of education should be to give young people this power of forceful expression of their thought. They need to get over the shy hesitations which a modest person feels at putting forth his ideas for the criticism of others.

Oral recitations are very valuable in helping students acquire the confidence to back up their ideas. Written tests have their value, but they do not give the self assurance that some quiet people need. Dramatic work, debates, declamations, these develop confidence. Many a community suffers, because its most intelligent people have not acquired the power of leadership.

THE HIGH FLIERS.

This is a time of year when many followers of smart life lie themselves to fashionable resorts in southern countries and certain places in our own borders.

Many of these people look not so much for a pleasant winter climate, as for rapid sporting life. Little Monte Carlo seem likely to develop in the West Indies and elsewhere, where there is no drowsy ban of prohibition, where gambling without limit is encouraged, and where easy views prevail in regard to all vices. "Vamps," "get rich quick" men, and all kinds of parasites, flourish in such centers.

Certain people do not find amusements interesting unless they have a risky tone. And there are a lot who have made more money in inflated times than they know what to do with. They enjoy kicking up their heels in forbidden pastures. The United States would be quite as well off, if some of these folks absented themselves permanently.

THE GAME OF SWIFTNES.

Those interested in athletics will be glad that the Davis cup, a great trophy of the lawn tennis world, comes back to this country, as the result of the victory of Tilden and Johnston in New Zealand.

People who see mediocre tennis players tossing the little woolly ball in their desultory fashion, have no idea what an intense game it can be. There is something marvellous in the force and accuracy by which the expert drives the little sphere into the corner of the court where it is most difficult for the opponent to get it.

American tennis players should be the best, since the national gift for quick action counts in this sport. It is a game that ought to be played in every neighborhood. It wakes up sluggish people, and promotes quick decision and agility of foot.

The old fashioned gold brick could be sold for something to the junk man, but the old paper collector has not so far paid anything for a get rich quick stock certificate.

The new taxation measures provide for assessing everything except losses, and no doubt the financial experts will soon find a way to tax them.

America grew its largest rye crop this year, but not all of it will be used in making health bread.

Popular impression is that the midwestern is a good deal of a muddleman in the system of distribution.

Warren G. Harding was elected president and Calvin Coolidge vice president of the United States on Monday of this week. On February 9 congress in joint session will hear the news of the election.

This is not as foolish as it sounds. Or, to put it otherwise, it is exactly as foolish as it sounds. The electoral college met on Monday and until it met there was no election of president and vice president. All the people did last November was to express their preference for Harding and Coolidge, which preference the college was bound morally and traditionally but not legally to observe.

MONEY COULD BE MADE TO TALK LOUDER THAN IT DOES

I have about give up hopes of getting any answer to all the letters I been writing to Pres. Harding and it begins to look like he either had the writers cramps from signing caddies cards and the editors is keeping his condition a secret, either that or he never got my letters as I didn't put down no St. number and maybe the mail carried to Marion don't know which is his house. But whatever the trouble is, the time has past for monkey business and I and my friends has decided to appeal to the voters to go to the front in my behalf and they will not only be doing me a favor, but themselves as well, because if the people don't step in and make a fight, the pres. elect is libel to surround himself with the same kind of male help we been enjoying for the past 8 yrs. and the coming administration will be another dud.

Chicken Feed at First.
Of course the money you make in mints is all chicken feed and for the present we would half to pay the country's debts in dimes and quarters and etc. but only till I have time to get another scheme working in regards to currency. They tell me that the reason the gov't is shy of currency is on acct. of the high price of paper and printers wages and every piece of paper money the gov't puts out costs them more than its worth.

Well, they was a plumber resting in the house the other day and while he was here the idea flashed on me and I asked him to let me see a $20 bill a minute and he let me take a federal reserve note for that amt. and sure enough it was just like I remembered it. They was a picture of Cleveland on one side of it and the other side showed a train and a aeroplane and a automobile and a big steam boat and a little tug boat and what any one of them things has got to do with $20 is a mystery to me, unless the automobile was a taxi which you could see it wasn't because the driver was looking ahead.

So I seen my idea was O. K. and I put in operation the gov't. could at lease break even on currency and probably make a good profit and I haven't had time to work out the details but I

In the past few wks. I have give the public some idea of my qualifications for the last 3 named portfolios and it will not be necessary to go over them again, so at present I will content myself with a few words and regards to the treasury dept. In the first place the duty of the secy. of that dept. now days is different than former yrs. when he was just supposed to see that they wasn't no money stole out of the treasury. If that was all he had to do now his job would be a good deal like the man that kicks goats from touch-downs at Yale. Dame Rumor hath it

They was a plumber resting in our house the other day and I asked him to let me see a $20 bill for a minute.

that the treasury is as clean as Washington's record in the world serious and the vaults in the treasury club, is like a poker game in the press club, full of I. O. O. F.

How I Qualify.
So the secy. don't half to be watch dog just now and that is why I don't see no sense in appointing Gen. Dawes to this portfolio, as with all due respects to the Gen. he has always worked in a bank that had money in it, and stuck him in the treasury and he would be a lost soul just like the Philites signing up Bill Donovan as mgr. because he can handle ball players. The man that is needed as head of the treasury dept. now is not the man that is use to taking care of money but the man that is use to being without it.

Brothers, I am that man. Now I don't want nobody to think from that remark that I don't pay my bills some way another, because I generally always manage to scrap up enough to tend to them when they are due, like for inst. our piano which we bought it on monthly instalments and I haven't missed a payment in 18 yrs. That is just the pt. I am trying to make, namely that when Gen. Dawes has money he always get a few bucks in his kick, why they's whole wks. at a time when I don't half to take nothing out of my pants pockets nights but my comb and brush, but just the same my creditors always leaves my door satisfied, provided they come with 5 or 6 m. rations. Some times we half to borrow last June's wages back from the cook lady and other times the mail man happens to come along with a check that I just write down my name on the back of it and it to who ever has been standing longest in line, which once in a while reaches way out in the front yard and people going by thinks we are having a big funeral or something.

But as I say, I get it when I got to have it to pay my debts and I would get it a whole lot easier to pay the country's debts because they's a way a gov't. can get money that if a private citizen done it he would go south for several winters, and that is what I will explain in a few wds.

Of course as far as the U. S. is concerned, borrowing is out of the ? as they's nobody to borrow out from. And when you can't borrow and people can't pay their income tax till the brokers has wore out their voice hollering more margin, why in a crisis like this a man like I that can think of a scheme like I have thought of is a better man than you are Gen. Dawes, or any of the others that has been mentioned for this high office.

Uniform Rank.
Licking company held its annual inspection on Monday evening with a good turnout. The company was inspected by Capt. Combs of Zanesville, who spoke highly of the work and appearance of the company. After the inspection the following officers were installed:
Captain, Edw. H. Reber; First Lieutenant, C. Coy. Secy. Lieutenant, Charles Irwin; First Sergeant, Arthur Marple; Second Sergeant, T. E. Tomlinson; Recorder, W. W. Ryan; Treasurer, J. A. Groves.
The Degree of Loyalty was conferred on a class of candidates, and work was put on in fine shape by the team. Preparations were made to start a drill team to go to the brigade encampment which will be held at Canton this summer. There are indications of hot rivalry between the various companies for this event. After the meeting, the refreshment committee, served the visiting Sir Knights and company with supper. Efforts will be made by the officers and Sir Knights to make this a banner year and the co-operation of every Sir Knight is needed the officers say.

XII.—The Second Parting.

When Nancy came out of her room, radiant in a black jetted dinner gown, Burrard sat outside the circle of the lamp, an open book sprawling on the floor beside him, his eyes bent on the card in his half-closed hand.

At the faint rustle of her jet drapery, and the breath of fragrance that always heralded her coming, he looked up, but he did not rise.

He said quietly:
"Sit down, please Nancy. I want to talk to you."

Surprised, she obeyed him, stooping over to swing a heavy tassel of jet over her slim ankles.

"For Heaven's sake," she began. Then she saw the sprawling book. Her eyes traveled instinctively to the open traveling bag and she caught her breath.

How foolish she had been to keep that card, she thought! Of course Gerry had found it. "Well," she questioned a bit defiantly.

For answer he extended the card. "This is yours?"

"Naturally," Nancy tucked a jetted hairpin more securely into her coiffure. "Who is this?" she consulted the card, "this Major Desmond?"

"A friend of Connie's," she retorted carelessly. "When I had to catch the train in such a rush, he was good enough to drive me to the station and get me a reservation."

"How did he know you had to catch the train in such a rush?"

"He was the at tea when your wire came—Connie and Peggy Lewis and a Mr. Harding who was Peggy's former husband."

"When did you meet this Desmond?" Burrard continued Burrard with ominous quiet.

"I won't be cross-examined," declared Nancy indignantly, springing to her feet. "You act as if I were a naughty child."

She did not want to tell Gerry how limited was her acquaintance with the handsome major. When she stopped to think about it, that message on the card DID seem a bit—well, intense—for such a brief acquaintanceship. But there are some people to whom one can never be a stranger—a queer psychic something—

"You haven't had time to meet anyone since I left, so I can only infer that your friendship with this man dates back before my departure."

The cold accusation in Burrard's gaze forced the truth from her reluctantly.

"I met Major Desmond at a dinner party Connie gave the night after you left."

Burrard sprang to his feet with a smothered exclamation.

"You mean to tell me that this—this boulder dared to write you a message like that and load you down with gifts—of course the candy was his and the flowers you wore when you arrived—When you hadn't known him twenty-four hours? And you a married woman, at that!"

Nancy's resentment flared to anger. "And why not? What harm was there in his showing me a bit of courtesy?"

Burrard stared down at her; his own anger betrayed by his brilliant eyes and twitching lips.

"Do you call it merely 'courtesy' to carry on another man's gifts the day after meeting her, see her off to meet her husband and send her a sentimental note in a carload of gifts?"

SOCIAL AFFAIRS

The South Newark unit of the Parent-Teachers association met at Hartzler school Thursday afternoon. Miss McDonald, a teacher in the high school, explained the intelligence tests. Five new members enrolled. The next meeting will be held February 17 at 7:30 p. m.

At St. Luke's Episcopal church in Granville, Friday evening the marriage of Miss Dorothy Ackley and Mr. Albert C. Gobel was solemnized. The ceremony came as a great surprise to the many friends of Mr. Gobel here.

Mrs. David Burde of Akron played the Lohengrin wedding march and Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Atkinson of Granville were the attendants.

The marriage service was read by Rev. Lewis P. Franklin, rector of Trinity Episcopal church of Newark. The bride wore a frock of dark brown charmeuse and a large brown velvet hat. The bridal bouquet was a corsage of sweetheart roses.

Immediately following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Gobel left for a trip to New York and Atlantic City, the latter place being the home of Mr. Gobel. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jere Ackley of Granville. Mr. Gobel is bookkeeper in the main office of the Ohio Power company.

Mr. and Mrs. Jere Ackley entertained the bridal party at dinner immediately preceding the ceremony. Brother Dies. Postmaster E. T. Mercer received word of the death of his brother James H. Mercer at Bloomery, Ohio. Mr. Mercer will leave for Bloomery to night. Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon.

Our Boys and Girls. The diet for the nursing mother should be nutritious, laxative and, at the same time, be of appeal to the appetite of the young mother. She may follow her own wishes as to the choice of her food as long as it holds to the general ideas given above.

The old idea that acid fruits and vegetables gave colic to the baby, when taken by the mother, is probably not true, since all acids are changed in the process of the mother's digestion. However, if they or any other food or drink, disturb the mother's digestion, it may have an unfavorable effect on the milk, and of course should be avoided.

It is necessary to watch the diet very carefully to eliminate all articles of diet that actually show themselves to be unsuited for the mother. If, in addition, the mother eats slowly, chews her food thoroughly and, above all, refrains from worry, there is no reason to suppose that the natural milk will not agree with the baby.

Milady's Boudoir. Cultivating Characteristics. If a woman is not beautiful, if she sees no way of making herself beautiful, even with my help, she can make herself very attractive by cultivating certain characteristics that are all her own, such as all of us possess.

First, she should learn how to dress herself attractively and in style, as all of us realize that to dress in style, to be known as a well-groomed woman, is a good start toward making ourselves attractive. Keep up with the good fashions, in street clothes as well as in all garments worn at home.

In order not to be called plain one does not have to dress elaborately. First one should study the mode of dressing her hair and select a style that is smart and is also becoming to your style. Do not, in the haste and bustle of preparing for the work of the day, think that the quickest arranged coiffure will suffice. Neither be misled by the thought that a tight, closely arranged coiffure is the most becoming for all faces that the claim was not presented until December 24, 1920.

For second cause of action the answer denies the indebtedness in the amount sought by Wright and claims attempted fraud when Wright pays himself a salary from a business entirely owned by himself. The answer asks that the intervening petition be dismissed.

Asks Dismissal of Petition. In the case of Bessie E. Wright vs. the Jewett Truck Attachment company an answer by A. L. Thomas was filed in common pleas court yesterday afternoon. The answer declares that W. S. Wright was the sole owner of the company, with four other directors who were given one share of stock in order that the company could be incorporated. It further declares that Mr. Wright executed notes of the company and delivered them to Mrs. Wright without consideration in attempted fraud to deprive the creditors of the company from the monies due them. Through his attorney, A. A. Stasel, Thomas asks that the petition be dismissed.

Wants Property Sold. Columbus D. Hughes filed a petition in common pleas court yesterday afternoon against Henry C. Thorpe et al. for the recovery of $300 secured on a court judgment last September. The petition which was filed by Attorney E. S. Randolph states Mr. Thorpe has property on Clinton street but that it is encumbered by a mortgage held by the Johnstown Building and Loan company. The petition seeks to have the property sold and an account of account of the liens made by the court and the $300 owed Hughes paid to him.

Claim is Filed. In the case of Isaac R. Nethers vs. Eliza Moats et al. Annie R. Motherspaugh filed an answer in common pleas court yesterday afternoon through her attorney Norpell and Norpell. She asks that if the property in question in the case is sold that an accounting of her lien of $200 will be considered and the priority of it be settled.

The class presented an unusual play in two acts, written and arranged by Mrs. William Clemons, a member of the class. The actors performed their parts well. Miss Larkin charmed the audience with her selections played before and between the acts. Rev. Emanuel Breeze, A. P. Nichol and Mr. Sherman were asked to name the play and after deliberation called it "Mollycoddle versus Marigold." The collection taken for the Near East relief brought $20. Rev. Mr. Breeze announced that the collections of the church taken for the Near East relief now amounted to $200.

OIL AND GAS NOTES
Hon. Leon R. Taylor, former governor of New Jersey, following Woodrow Wilson in that office, and speaker of the New Jersey house of representatives
when President Wilson was governor, arrived in Lewistown yesterday Mr.
Taylor, who was a classmate of Ernest
Cornell, secretary of the Metropolitan
Petroleum company at Denison University has come to central Montana to look over the oil industry and may locate here.
Mr. Taylor stated that he had already formed the opinion from reports received in the east that Montana has a good chance of becoming the greatest oil producing state in the country.
People in the east are very much interested, he said, and the local fields are holding their fixed attention.
When Mr. Taylor was governor of the state of New Jersey he was the youngest state executive in the United States. He is now only 37 years old.
He was, of course very much pleased to learn that the Metropolitan oil company of which his old friend Cornell is secretary has its holdings on the axis
of the Cat Creek anticline in section
5-15-29, and only one mile from the Hitter-Lawson well which just came in.

Oil and Gas Notes
Hon. Leon R. Taylor, former governor of New Jersey, following Woodrow Wilson in that office, and speaker of the New Jersey house of representatives
when President Wilson was governor,
arrived in Lewistown yesterday Mr.
Taylor, who was a classmate of Ernest
Cornell, secretary of the Metropolitan
Petroleum company at Denison University has come to central Montana to look over the oil industry and may locate here.
Mr. Taylor stated that he had already formed the opinion from reports received in the east that Montana has a good chance of becoming the greatest oil producing state in the country.
People in the east are very much interested, he said, and the local fields are holding their fixed attention.
When Mr. Taylor was governor of the state of New Jersey he was the youngest state executive in the United States. He is now only 37 years old.
He was, of course very much pleased
to learn that the Metropolitan oil company of which his old friend Cornell is
secretary has its holdings on the axis
of the Cat Creek anticline in section
5-15-29, and only one mile from the Hitter-Lawson well which just came in.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Offerings of wheat were light today and prices advanced two cents before the upturn was checked. There was a general rush of short coverings and commission house buying at the outset, while on the balance there was some selling attributed to the same interest that has been credited with selling freely for some days past.

A report from central Illinois told of considerable sales of the cereal there during the week. Initial quotations which varied from one cent lower to one cent higher, with March $1.54 1/2 to $1.65 1/2 and May, $1.54 to $1.65, were followed by rallies all around.

SOLDIERS SEIZE LAND PROMISED BY ENGLAND

London.—Former soldiers who were promised gifts of land after the war, but who have failed to receive it, are forcibly taking it in some of the Hebrides Islands, off the west coast of Scotland. The dissatisfaction over failure to obtain land appears to be spreading among the islanders.

On one of the islands the former service men have seized and divided among themselves a 3,000-acre farm, driven off the stock which was on it and restocked the stock with their own cattle, sheep and horses. They blame the British Board of Agriculture for failure to keep the promise to provide them with land.

BOY OF 10 DIES OF DRINK

Brussels.—Four children and a dog resolutely refused to get up from a road near here. The boy of ten died while being taken home. The others explained that the oldest had stolen a bottle of brandy from a wine merchant's motorcar and they had shared the contents.

WITH THE OHIO CLUB WOMEN

By MRS. GEO. ELLIOTT MCCORMICK

As this is the time when clubs are planning their study for next year, the various state department chairmen of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs have outlined subjects they would like to see clubwomen place on their programs. A club desiring a miscellaneous program would have a most interesting as well as a most beneficial one by planning a program day for each one of the seventeen separate departments of the state federation. A study of these departments would give clubwomen a more satisfactory knowledge and a much broader view of what the state federation is trying to accomplish, and in that way clubwomen naturally would become more interested in the state body and of more service to the state and national federations.

The art department, Mrs. John MacKee, Springfield, chairman, would have "art" day for the opening day of every club calendar, the subject for that day being "City Planning." Mrs. MacKee finds that clubs are intensely interested in this subject. It has been suggested that an open meeting be held in celebration of "Art" day.

Mrs. Warren Williamson, Youngstown, head of the music department, hopes to have a "Music" day on every program next year. She asks that the study for that day be "American Musical History." She wants every club to celebrate national music week, the week of Washington's birthday. An open meeting of clubs over the state would afford artists of the state music department an opportunity to be heard.

Dr. Josephine L. Peare Lima, head of the child welfare department, suggests these topics for a "Child Welfare" day.

1. "The Scope of Work of the Child Welfare Division of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs"
2. "The Child Welfare Committee in Every Club and Federation"
3. "The Need for and the Outcome of the Sheppard-Towner Maternity and Infancy Bill"
4. "The Child in the Home"
5. "The Child in the Community"
6. "The Child in the School"
7. "The Child in the Church"
8. "The Child in the Public Schools"
9. "The Undernourished Child"
10. "The Modern Health Crusaders"
11. "The Child in Industry Under Sixteen Years of Age"

Ohio Federation Notes.
Mrs. C. E. Myers 346 Alden avenue, Columbus, former president of the Redemptive club, the new executive secretary of the Columbus federation, is well known in state federation circles for her uniform courtesy and uncommon ability in handling club questions. She will make an ideal head for the department of work for which she has been selected, it is generally believed.

Touching on industrial art and its value to a community, Mrs. John MacKee, Springfield, state federation art chairman, addressed the Sorosis club at Canton last week when "Art" day was celebrated. Mrs. MacKee's subject was "City Planning."

Mrs. Siegfried Gelsmer, Cincinnati, spoke to a large audience at the First Presbyterian church in Marion, January 12, under the auspices of the Dolphin club. She told of Americanization work in the Queen City. Marion public schools dismissed early in the afternoon so that the teachers could hear her.

Miss Annie Laws, Cincinnati, federation chairman of the kindergarten department, Mrs. Fenton Lawson, president of the Woman's City club, Cincinnati, and Mrs. H. Kennon Dunham, president of the Cincinnati Woman's club, were conspicuous in the sessions of the seventh annual convention of the National Council of Girl Scouts in Cincinnati the week of January 18.

The Automobile Simplified

By FREDERICK C. GUERRICH, M. E.

An intimate talk on the working units of the automobile, discussed in such a way that the layman can easily understand them.

If in reading these articles there is anything not clear to you, ask Mr. Guerrich about it.

LECTURE No. 53 The Lighting System

In studying the electric lighting system of the automobile, let us first see what units are necessary in it.

First of all we must have the lights, then we must have a source of current, or the battery, then, in order to be able to turn the lights on or off at will we must have a set of switches, and also, in order to prevent the burning out of the lights, wires or other units, in case of a short circuit, some safety device, as a safety fuse.

As you all know the light is obtained from an electric bulb. This is a glass bulb, from which all the air has been drawn, and in which there is a "filament" of fine wire made of some material, such as tungsten, which has a very high resistance to the flow of electric current. Due to this resistance, when current flows through it, the filament becomes "white hot" and so gives out light.

Should too much go through the filament, as might happen when there is a short circuit, when certain wires become disconnected, or when certain wires become crossed, the filament will become so hot that it will melt, or, as the saying is, "blow out."

In order to prevent too much current passing through the bulbs many cars are equipped with "fuses." These are simply wires (enclosed in a glass or in non-burnable fibre), which will melt when the amperage is a little higher than the bulbs are designed for, but not yet high enough to burn them out.

Drivers should always carry extra fuses with them. For the headlight and horn, a 15-ampere (15 A.) fuse is usually used, while for the side, tail and dash light, a 15A fuse is used. You should know where the fuse box is located, and when replacing burned-out fuses always replace with a fuse of the same amperage as the one furnished by the maker. Where the fuse is in a red fibre, there is a little ring printed on its side. When the fuse burns out this will become black, as a rule. Changing the fuses around will also tell you if a certain fuse is "blown."

While the lighting system, with its units, the battery, switches, fuses and lights, is a separate and independent system, the ignition system, the generator, and the starting motor, are also connected to the battery, and so in order to save wires and to reduce the chance of short circuits, etc., the various systems are connected together.

It would be well for you to trace the wiring of your car, with the wiring diagram, which you will find in your instruction book as a guide.

In tracing, remember that you have four systems, namely, the lighting system, the units of which are, the battery, switches, fuses and lights; the charging system, the units of which are, the generator, cut out and regulator, possibly ammeter and the battery; the starting system, with the motor, switch and battery as the units; and the ignition system, the units of which are, the battery, switch, coil and interrupter. If you will trace each system separately, ignoring the others while doing so, you will find it a difficult task.

Two methods of wiring are used, namely, the single wire method, and the two-wire method. In the single wire method, the metal parts of the car are used for the return of the current (or one terminal of the battery and each of the units is grounded) so that only one wire goes to each. In the two-wire method, a separate wire, instead of the "ground," is used for the returning current, two wires going to each unit.

In Fig. 1 I give a wiring diagram for the lights, using the single wire method, and in Fig. 2, one using the two-wire method. In Fig. 1 I have placed the fuses between the battery and switch, while in Fig. 2, the fuses are between the switch and lights.

I might say that all cars are not furnished with fuses.

Lighting System Troubles
Failure of the lights to light may be become so hot that it will melt, or, as the saying is, "blow out."

In order to prevent too much current passing through the bulbs many cars are equipped with "fuses." These are simply wires (enclosed in a glass or in non-burnable fibre), which will melt when the amperage is a little higher than the bulbs are designed for, but not yet high enough to burn them out.

Drivers should always carry extra fuses with them. For the headlight and horn, a 15-ampere (15 A.) fuse is usually used, while for the side, tail and dash light, a 15A fuse is used. You should know where the fuse box is located, and when replacing burned-out fuses always replace with a fuse of the same amperage as the one furnished by the maker. Where the fuse is in a red fibre, there is a little ring printed on its side. When the fuse burns out this will become black, as a rule. Changing the fuses around will also tell you if a certain fuse is "blown."

While the lighting system, with its units, the battery, switches, fuses and lights, is a separate and independent system, the ignition system, the generator, and the starting motor, are also connected to the battery, and so in order to save wires and to reduce the chance of short circuits, etc., the various systems are connected together.

due to a disconnected or broken wire which can be found by tracing the circuits. It may be due to a short circuit, also found by tracing the circuit and by looking for a bare spot on the wires. If a bare spot is found, wind insulating tape around it. Short circuits are very liable to be found at the ends of wires, or at terminals.

A short circuit in one of the other systems will affect the lighting systems, as by giving an easy passage for the current, not enough will go to the lights to make them burn.

A blown fuse, discharged battery, or faulty switch will also be the cause of the lights failing to burn.

Dim lights will be due to a weak battery, short circuit, poorly connected wire, or dirty or faulty switch.

Where fuses blow out constantly, there is probably a short circuit, an incorrectly connected or a crossed wire. When fuses blow freely try to find the cause before replacing the burned-out fuse, and always be careful to use a fuse of the same amperage as that originally furnished by the maker.

An instruction book is furnished with every car. Owners should very carefully study this, especially as regards the electrical apparatus, paying particular attention to the "cautions" given therein. With some systems, especially where the car has a magneto, when the storage battery is taken out of the car in order to be charged, certain wires will have to be disconnected from the generator, or the lights will be burned out.
